

9-16-2023

The “Experimenter” Vs. The Experimentee: How to Eliminate Existentialism

Lance Turner

Follow this and additional works at: <https://commons.library.stonybrook.edu/writingbeyondtheprison>

Part of the Africana Studies Commons, and the Law Commons

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial 4.0 International License

Recommended Citation

Turner, Lance, "The “Experimenter” Vs. The Experimentee: How to Eliminate Existentialism" (2023). Writing Beyond the Prison. 6.

<https://commons.library.stonybrook.edu/writingbeyondtheprison/6>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by Academic Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Writing Beyond the Prison by an authorized administrator of Academic Commons. For more information, please contact mona.ramonetti@stonybrook.edu, hu.wang.2@stonybrook.edu.

Abstract

Title: The "Experimentor" Vs. The Experimentee: How to Eliminate Existentialism

Genre: Historical Fiction/ Psychological Thriller

Author: Dr. Lance Dionte Turner

Educational Value

This is a valuable resource for psychology and philosophy students. Why? Because I tackle the subject of free will (existentialism). No one can steal your free will unless you allow them to place you in a mental prison. I illustrate two types of prison in this book. a mental prison and a physical prison. I also incorporate the history of the Skoptzys. The Skoptzys placed themselves in a mental prison because they were focused on Christ's return. The 144,000 was a magical number for them.

Synopsis

The Skoptsy predicted that the world was going to end on June 6, 1666. They believed that Christ would make a second appearance on that day. . They were on a mission to give 144,000 men the greater seal. This book illustrates the two types of prisons that we can place ourselves in: a mental prison and a physical prison. The Experimentor was always at war with the Experimentee. The Experimentor conquered the Experimentee by dividing the house slave and the Field Slave. This is part 2 of the Experimentor versus the Experimentee Series. The Experimentor (slave master) learns that the way to Eliminate Existentialism is to place people in a mental prison. We see the battle of the mind here in the mental ward.

Manuscript Excerpt

Title: The “Experimenter” Vs. The Experimentee: How to Eliminate Existentialism

By: Dr. Lance Dionte Turner

Manuscript- Introduction

I am here to paint a picture of what it is like to live without “existentialism” (free will). In a world without existentialism, you are forced to engage in modern-day slavery. The year was 1600 and it was the beginning of the Industrial Revolution. The slave was forced to do labor for the Experimenter. The Experimenter had an occupation as a “master.” Whereas the Experimentee would be the “slave.” In the eyes of the master, the slave would be a lab rat. The slave would also be a tool of money. He would be forced to engage in prostitution because, in the eyes of the master, the child would become property. Men would freely have sex with women in order to produce a child for the master. The master owned a plantation, and in the South, the slaves had no clothes. The weather was warm all year round. The Skoptzy’s would purchase slaves because they believed that the world would end in the year 1666. This was the myth that allowed their organization to make so much money. They only had an interest in men. The women would gossip about the Skoptzy’s being gay. They were a religious cult that believed that Jesus Christ would return in the year 1666. They also believed that it was their duty to ensure Jesus’s arrival by giving 144,000 men the greater seal. The first target was slaves. A slave had no rights. The Church of Christ had purchased many slaves in Atlanta, Georgia. Slaves were forced to wear handcuffs while undergoing a procedure known as the “greater seal.” Since slaves had no rights, under the laws of the Skoptzy’s they had to automatically get the greater seal. The greater seal would involve the removal of both the testicles and the penis. The Skoptzy’s would use a pair of what they called doctor scissors. They were not interested in creating slaves. They were only interested in giving every slave the greater seal. Once the slave would be given the greater seal, the Skoptzy would allow him to be free. In the eyes of a woman, a man without a penis is no longer a man. Many of the slaves who had been given the greater seal would die off and their bodies would be burned outside the cemetery. A master would charge the Skoptzy around $400.00 to purchase a slave. Because the Skoptzy were only interested in men, the master would hope that the pregnant woman was having a boy. Women were Superstitious because they believed they had to hold their hands a certain way in order to be given a boy. A man would have to do all the work in order to be given a son. The belief was that if a woman was lying down while a man did all the work, the baby would turn out to be a boy.

Now if a woman was on top of a man, she would be given a girl for doing all the work. When the master learned this secret, they published it in the “Daily Herald.” The Daily Herald was a newspaper that was published during the slave trade of Atlanta, Georgia. It was the source of entertainment for the house slaves as well as the master. Niggers worked in the field while house slaves stayed in the books. A house slave was given status, recognition, and the right to learn to read and write. The master implemented a system where it was a war between a house slave and a field slave. The separatism of the house slave and the field slave caused chaos among the African Americans. The master taught the house slaves to hate the field slaves. The house slave would be able to eat as much as he desired as long as he pleased the master. In the 1600s, the master trained the house slave to view the field slave as an enemy. The field slaves would often be sold to the Skoptsy's at the price of 400 dollars a slave. The Skoptsy told them about the Mayan prophecy of 1666 as the year the world would end, the mysterious date was June 6, 1666. This date represented the mark of the Beast. The Beast would make an appearance to end the world. Jesus Christ would represent the entity that would end the world. He was both the lamb and the Beast. When the slave was given the greater seal, he would be given 400 more days before he would be a free man. The reason for this was because the Skoptsy wanted to get their money's worth on a slave. A slave had no legal rights. A slave was considered to be property. Society viewed the slave as being three-fifths of a person...